

2023 Summer Internship

Thirst Missions is looking for college-age interns to join our summer staff in Alaska, Appalachia, or Puerto Rico, late May to early-August, 2023 (start and end dates are tentative and negotiable). This is an exciting opportunity to travel, serve people in need, meet and serve alongside people from many different locations, while gaining leadership and management experience. With this opportunity, you will receive paid travel expenses (round-trip airfare), lodging, and meals, as well as all the materials you need to carry out your role.

A few details:

Each intern will be an integral member of our 2-4 person leadership teams as we host churches from North America each week. We will be staying with the participating teams and will provide each of them with an average of a week-long mission trip in Alaska, Appalachia, or Puerto Rico. Responsibilities could include lining up ministry opportunities, ministry sites, restaurants, recreation, and transportation. Other responsibilities might include preparing breakfast and snacks, leading worship and debriefing, participating and leading meetings, and generally guiding each church's trip. Our goal is to use each team member's strengths and interests to best serve the churches and groups. Expect to serve on 5-6 week long mission trips throughout the summer.

You can find out more information on Thirst Missions through our website, www.thirstmissions.org or our Facebook Page, www.facebook.com/thirstmissions
